February's I've Been There!

45 of the Highest Ski Areas in the USA

First, January's winner of those who visited the best ski towns in the U.S. was Guy Nerren!
Congratulation Guy.

This month's contest is... Who skied the highest ski areas in the country?

The highest ski mountain in the country is Breckenridge at 12,841 feet at its peak, with a 3,398 foot vertical drop. This list is from Skiresort.com. It ranks 509 resorts by height. Highest Ski Areas in the USA

Here's how the contest works:

1. A list of areas is printed on the entry form.
2. On the entry form circle the name of the areas you've skied.
3. Turn in your entry form at the first meeting of the month.
You must attend the meeting to play and win.
4. The winner is the person who skied (not only visited) the most ski areas. You may only count a ski area once. Multiple visits to the same area do not count. In case of a tie, we will hold a coin toss to determine the winner.

Skiing Switzerland in January – Is Europe in our Future?

By President Bob Maclauchlan

Hi Rise President Bob Mac skis Europe in the shadow of the Matterhorn!

I recently took my first European ski trip with Curtis Bell, Cleveland Metro Ski Council Trip Chair and Hi Rise club member. We were hosted on a Fam (Familiarization) Trip by Snow Tours from New Jersey. Curtis has been using them for multiple years with both Warren Ski Club and CMSC. They charged me a reasonable fee for the trip, and I paid my own airfare.

On January 4th we flew from Cleveland around 5 PM to New York's JFK airport to catch a direct overnight flight into Zurich arriving at 10:30 a.m. Thursday morning.

After collecting our bags, we walked through the terminal and downstairs to the Swiss train station where we met Bob Rosenthal from Snow Tours and a couple other guests. They provided us with first class train passes (for the week) and found the train that would get us on our way to Davos. We took 3 different trains to get to Davos, changing trains twice, not a big deal. So, we had to know what track the next train was on since time between trains was usually less than 10 minutes. Trains in Europe are always on time! To change trains, you sometimes have to go under the tracks to a different platform. The reason I explain this is I travelled with a large, wheeled suitcase and a carry-on boot bag which I checked on the plane but had to carry onto the trains. Most people do not bring skis to Europe because of having to lug them along and the cost to rent is close to the cost of checking skis.

We arrived in Davos. Around 2:30 we arrived at our hotel, called Club Hotel Davos. The cab ride was only 2-minute although it was a walkable from the station, but it was difficult walking uphill with our bags.

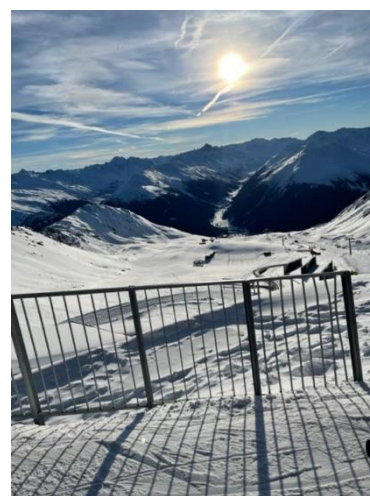

Club Hotel Davos is a family owned 3-star hotel in town with a bus stop (Bus to skiing and through town) a dinner and European dinner were part of our package each day. Breakfast was cold including cereal, juices, fruit, bread, cold cuts, cheese, tea and coffee which is typical on Europe.

European mountain accommodations

At breakfast we were given a paper to choose our dinner from a menu which included salad, soup, desert and a choice of 3 different main course item including a vegetarian meal. They have a bar, pool and steam room. Rooms are not a bad size but the beds are a little different, very similar to the beds you get at Ikea, but twin beds are 2 mattresses on one box spring, fortunately we had our own rooms here, phew!

Davos Klosters Mountains are made up of 6 different ski resorts spread out in the valley surrounding Davos, all but one is available on the same pass. Finally, we caught the crowded morning bus for the 5-minute drive where we were dropped off at the bottom of our ski location, Jakobshorn. Here we were met by our local Davos tourist guide and two mountain guides and proceeded from the street into a building to catch the incline train that literally consist of 2 trains on one cable counterbalancing each other as we climbed uphill through tunnels to a second train that took us all the way to the top. On the other side we were met by multiple valleys, mountains, with numerous lifts and runs. Unfortunately, Europe continues to be in a drought. Although there was good coverage, we primarily skied on the runs. The vistas were fantastic, and skiing was quite good. On the second day we were scheduled to try one of the other ski areas but returned to Jakobshorn as it had the best conditions by far.

Davos Valley, Switzerland

Friday evening, we saw a professional Swiss league hockey game that was fast and very exciting going to 7 penalty shots after overtime with the home team finally winning. The home team's cheering section was behind the visitor's net for the first and third period, they stood, chanted, sang, waved flags and probably had a few beverages. The visiting team had a little less than half as many fans in the corner at the opposite end who were also quite boisterous, very entertaining. Friday night we participated in Bavarian Curling on an outside ice surface shared by free skaters and hockey players. The town was quite busy as it was the end of their holiday season, (3 weeks instead of 3 days) and there was a lot of construction all around town for the World Economic Forum which happened in mid-January, apparently held here because it is hard to get to and they could secure the area.

Sunday morning, we walked to the train station so we could travel back to the Zurich airport (3 trains) and then on to Zermatt (2 trains) total 4-hour trip but very scenic through the Siss Alps. This is not the normal on ski trips to Europe, it was a Fam trip where they want to show us multiple locations. A club trip would be to one location for a week.

Zermatt, Switzerland

Zermatt is one of the greatest ski towns in the world, nestled in a valley with a view of The Matterhorn throughout. Aside from a few busses all vehicles are electric and are similar to golf carts, only larger. Cabs can carry 7 passengers plus equipment. If you are not carrying equipment, you can walk anywhere in town on the roads or sidewalks. The village is loaded with hotels, restaurants, bars and various shops, typical of most ski towns with superb vistas!

The 11 of us, stayed at The Hotel Astoria, another family run business, in the middle of town, that included daily breakfast with hot food, eggs, bacon, sausage and made to order eggs along with the meat, cheeses and fruit options. The owner was very friendly and opened up his whole facility to our group including sauna and steam rooms.

On Monday we walked 2 minutes to the bus stop which took us to the slopes. This place is massive. The first day we skied the left side (looking up from the town) of the mountains. To get to the top we took a train similar to Davos by taking 3 trams, 3 gondolas and 7 chair lifts - all very confusing at first glance. Unfortunately, after a few runs' visibility diminished and we seemed to be running on a lot of cat tracks and slowing us down. Our guide was from Zermatt tourism, and she treated us to a typical lunch that consisted of soup or salad and a main course, most of us had small Cornish Hen type chickens that was delicious, this lasted about 2 hours but no complaints because of the conditions. Some of us did a few more runs and managed to go all the way down into town and a short 2-minute ride to the hotel.

Tuesday, we awoke to a blue bird day that completely changed my mind about European skiing, with no real plan we ended up at the train station and rode a real train past The Matterhorn and up 10,132' where you could see for miles. Our goal was to ski into Italy but due to high winds this was not possible because the lifts were closed. So, we skied the morning next to the Matterhorn, giving us the best views and pictures being less than a mile away. We rode a long gondola that started in town and reached 10,000' with 4 stops to get the vistas. Since Italy was a no go, we decided to take the tram up to Matterhorn Glacier Paradise at 12,740' vertical, this a newer very large and comfortable tram with leather seating, no skis since the runs were closed. Since we could see Italy, I decided to have pasta for lunch. Afterwards we did a few more runs and followed the gondola line into town.

That evening we enjoyed the town and woke up way too early so we could ride 2 trains that took us to the airport in just under 3 hours for our flights home.

I enjoyed my trip and will be happy to look into running a Hi Rise trip to Europe, possibly in 2025 or 2026 if members are interested in going over there. Please let me know if you would or would not be interested in a Hi Rise trip to Europe.

We will be happy to look into running a Hi Rise trip to Europe.

Old School Ski Boot Laces, Hmm?

Many of us have skied for a long time. So long that we may have begun skiing with leather lace boots! Well, the leather boot isn't making a return, but laces may. According to an article in Ski Brains, K2 has taken a cue from the lace snowboard boots and applies that technology to ski boots. The BOA® technology is used in the K2 Recon 120 BOA® and promises to provide a more snug fit and eliminate those pesky pressure points. Read more about this new technology at The K2 Recon 120 Ski Boot.

What is a Rocker Ski?

Speaking of ski technology what is a rocker ski anyway?

Well, according to Unofficial Network, ski news, there are two shapes of skis. They are camber and rocker. Skis with the camber shape are bowed and the rocker shape is the opposite and has rocking chair rail profile. In both cases they affect how easily the skis turn. The rocker shape provides an easier turn and is good in powder whereas, cambered skis are better in hardpack and groomed trails. Most skis are a combination of both.

February Hi Rise Trivia.

Who is an actor in local play?

Answer: Arnie Rodriguez

*Arnie as ,
the gangster.*

Last month Arnie played in a lead role in the murder mystery play, Angelina, performed at the Willoughby Elks Club. Arnie played Musimo, the leg-breaking hitman mobster – very convincingly, I might add!

Several Hi Rise members enjoyed an excellent dinner and a delightful play on a Saturday night. Believe me, identifying the murderer in a murder mystery is not easy! LOL Thank you Arnie for a memorable evening.
